By the articles of Peace in 1763. Cape Breton and all the other Islands in the Gulf of S.t Lawrence are ceded to Great Britain. The French are allowed to fish in the Gulf at the distance of three Leagues from all the Coasts And at 15 Leagues distance from the Island of Cape Breton without the Gulf The Islands of S.t Peters & Miquelon are ceded to France with Liberty to dry their fish on the North Coasts of Newfoundland, from C. Bonavista to P. Riche in like manner as formerly allowed by the Treaty of Utrecht.

The French by y.e Treaty of Utrecht were allowed to catch Fish, and to dry them on land, in that Part only, and no other, of y.e Island of Newfound-Land, which stretches from Cape Bonavista to y.e Northern Point of y.e Island, and from thence running down by y.e Western side, reaches as far as Point Riche But y.e Island Cape Briton, as also all others both in y.e mouth of y.e R. S.t Laur.ce & Gulf of y.e same name were given to the French.
